

THE ANCIENT FAMILIES OF SUFFOLK.

BY REV. FRANCIS HASLEWOOD, F.S.A.,

Rector of S. Matthew's, Ipswich.

NO apology is offered for occupying so many pages of the present volume with a transcript of the oft-quoted Gipps' collections inasmuch as they are both valuable and interesting—valuable because they constitute, as it were, the key-stone to much information obtainable from other and later sources, and interesting for the reason that the ancient records are purely local. They tell us what manner of men the founders of some of the most influential and best known Suffolk families were; and at the same time, reading between the lines, we observe that good old Gipps, the results of whose patient research have been presented in such a form as to be most helpful to students of the topography and family history of the county, derived evident pleasure and satisfaction in noting the brave and noble deeds of men whose chief virtue lay, in his estimation, in their being prepared to sacrifice not only fair estates and personal ease and comfort, but even their lives, for the sake of their king and country. The names of these good and great men still attach to Suffolk families, but alas! time plays havoc with families as with buildings rich in antiquarian features and architectural beauty. Still the importance of the records is none the less apparent because there may be no longer descendants of these old county families, as there are localities and ancient structures which have a halo of interest thrown around them by what we read in Sir Richard Gipps' manuscript.

K

The original is in the British Museum (ADD. MSS. 20,695), and consists of a small quarto volume of 139 folios, and the beauty of the caligraphy is such as to excite the admiration of all who have had occasion to refer to the manuscript with a view of culling from its folios data for public and private uses. Difficult as it may be to resist the temptation to single out some of the items for special notice, yet it is perhaps best to leave the pleasant task to the reader. The manuscript gives a brief history of Suffolk families, as well as their armorial bearings. It will be observed that in some of the biographical sketches the political views of the then influential residents of the county are expressed in language not to be misunderstood, while references to the troublous period of the Commonwealth are frequent and outspoken. Other features of historical moment at the period are prominently brought out.

The conditions of tenure under which some of the manors were held at that remote time will strike the reader as exceedingly curious not to say, to quote Gipps himself, "merrie," the merriment being of a sort which would hardly be consistent with the ideas of propriety in this more refined age in which we live. It only remains to be said that in the transcript there has been a rigid adherence to the spelling in the original.

Davy, in his Suffolk Collections (Brit. Mus. Add. mss. 19,132. Peds. Vol. LVI.) records the following relating to Gipps. This family was anciently seated at Ipswich, but afterwards divided into two branches: Sir Richard Gipps, the Collector of these Antiquities, was of the elder house, and seated at Great Wheltham Hall in Thedwastry Hundred, and married an heiress in Devonshire, by whom he had a fine estate there. He was admitted of the Inner Temple, and appointed Master of the Revels upon an invitation of King Charles II. to their Christmas Festivals, by whom he was then knighted. He was possessed of the manors of Great Wheltham, Brockley, and Rede, with divers other lands, &c.

Sir Richard Gipps of Horningsheath in Thingoe Hundred, was of the younger house.

Antiquitates Suffolciences.

The following Collections were chiefly made by S^r Richard Gipps K^{nt} of Great Wheltham in Thedwestry Hundred; a curious Man and great searcher into Antiquity. Had he lived to put his last Hand to 'em, we might have hop'd for a good Account of the most ancient Familys in the County: But as he left only a rough Draught of his Design, and that very much mix'd and confus'd, our Hopes, for the present at least, are frustrated, and this Book can be call'd no more than an Essay &c. S^r Richard had taken Notice of only 180 Familys in Order; to which are added above 100 more, chiefly from such Lights as he had left behind him. But because very old Familys are, in some Measure, like very old Ruins, you must take a great Deal of Pains, and clear 'em of Abundance of Rubbish, before you meet with any Thing worth your Search, and more Hands than one are requir'd to such a Work, The Whole, for the more easy finding the Names of Familys is digested in an Alphabetical order, and a Spare side left, that Mistakes may be corrected, where any Thing is amiss, and Additions made, where they are wanting.

And when his Great Master was murder'd, and he cou'd no longer be serviceable to his Family, his Attachment to the Royal Cause was so inviolable, that he chose rather to submit to Providence, than the Usurpers: and so transported himself to Barbadoes, then the Asylum of Cavaliers. There, as a Reward for exposing his Life, and parting with a small Fortune for the sake of his God, his King, and his Country, Providence so seconded his own Industry, that he rais'd a fine Estate in a short Time, and, not long after, came into England, seated himself at Rougham Place in Thedwestry Hundred, [by Purchase of S^r Jeffery Burrell, and as a Reward of his faithfull Services] was created Baronett May 28. 1682. 34 Car. 2. I am sent hither to do the Church and Cesar Right, to vindicate the Doctrines of one, and preserve the Majesty of the other: both which are in Danger from Gentlemens Arguments in the Debate of this Day. M^r Speaker, here is an Affair of the greatest Weight before us, both as we are Christians and Englishmen; no less than the deposing a King, whom we have sworn Allegiance to. Will our Religion or our Laws, justify such a Proceeding? I know, they will not. Gentlemen indeed have laid a mighty Stress upon the Original Contract; and urg'd the Vacancy of the Throne from his Majestys Breach of that. But, I hope, we shall not proceed rashly in a matter of such Consequence to us and our Posterity. And therefore I move, that this Debate be adjourn'd, till the Original Contract be produc'd, and laid upon the Table for the Members to peruse, that we may see whether his Majesty has broke it, or no.

After the P—— and P——ss of O. were declar'd K—— and Q—— contrary to our known Laws, S^r John retir'd to his Seat at Boxted, and never acted in a public Station afterwards; but liv'd and dy'd, enjoying the Comforts of a private Life and a good Conscience, belov'd and lamented by all, who had the Honour to know him. He left Issue one Son, John Poley Esq^r. now of Boxted, and one Daughter, Elizabeth: both unmarried.
