

Early Medieval Occupation Site at Rendlesham. Whilst a mechanical excavator was at work near Fen Row, a quantity of pottery sherds were turned up. The Ipswich Museum authorities dated these at about the 10th and 11th centuries and one piece of black glazed pottery was thought to be 1st century A.D. The sherds obviously formed part of complete vessels broken by the excavator and were found in conjunction with burnt earth hollows some 6 inches below the surface. The site lies at the head of a small valley where there is a spring of fresh water.

Similar finds have been made by Mr. David Mace on the heath near Poplar Farm, Hollesley where he has excavated what appears to be a kiln. Sherds lay in great profusion on the surface over a wide area.

An Index to Suckling. Through the enterprise and financial backing of Sir Guy Hambling, Bart., of Yoxford, a long-needed index to the two volumes of Suckling's History of Suffolk is to be printed by Messrs. W. S. Cowell, Ltd., of Ipswich. The manuscript to be used is a large 4to volume in the possession of James M. Martin, Esq., the Ipswich collector and to him thanks are due for permission to undertake the work. The Index, which will contain some 20,000 references, will have the same page size as the small-paper edition of the original work. Only one hundred copies will be printed, at £3 3s. 0d. a copy, and orders should be sent to Messrs. Cowell immediately. A list of subscribers will be inserted and each copy will be numbered.

Suffolk Place-Names. Suffolk archæologists and historians will be glad to learn that the English Place-name Society has started on the production of a volume dealing with Suffolk. The work will be in the charge of Dr. P. H. Reaney, LITT.D., PH.D., who was responsible for the excellent volume on the neighbouring county of Essex. Hitherto students of place-names in Suffolk have relied on Skeat's Place-names of Suffolk, published by the Cambridge Antiquarian Society forty years ago; since then, much new source-material has come to light and the result of Dr. Reaney's labours will be keenly awaited.

REPORT FOR 1951

Forty-five new Annual Members, two Life Members and five Associate Members were elected during 1951. We have lost by death or resignation a number of members, so our net increase on last year's figures is sixteen. The Institute has suffered irreparable losses during the year, first in January by the death of Sir John Wood, who was President from 1921 until 1946 and later in October by the death of our Patron, The Marquis of Bristol.

The membership at the 31 December, 1951 was:—

Annual Members	372
Associate Members	79
Life Members	59
Honorary Members	7
	517

Excursions, Lectures and Meetings.—Excursions were arranged during the summer:—

June	6	Melford Hall, Kentwell Hall and Long Melford Church; Acton Church.
July	7	Fressingfield Church; Mendham Water Mill; Bungay.
Sept.	25	Gazeley Church; Dalham Hall and Church; Hawkedon, Thurston End Hall and Church.

In addition, opportunity was afforded to members to accompany the Royal Archæological Institute on the excursions arranged for them during July.

Lectures were given in Bury St. Edmunds and Ipswich in the early and late months of the year:—

Jan.	4	Bury and St. Edmund; the development of the Capital of West Suffolk, by Norman Scarfe, M.A.
Feb.	1	Uniforms of the 12th Foot (Suffolk Regiment), by Rev. W. M. Lummis, M.C.
April	21	Heraldry, by Leslie Dow, F.S.A.
Dec.	8	The East Anglian Coast; with particular reference to Suffolk, by Professor J. A. Steers.

The Annual Meeting was held at Ipswich on the 25 April when Mr. Maynard arranged an exhibition of antiquities from Ipswich Museum. The Council met at Bury St. Edmunds on 1 Feb., 11 October and 16 November and at Ipswich on the 25 April.

Visit of the Royal Archaeological Institute.—Ipswich was the venue of the R. A. I. this year and our Editor, Mr. Leslie Dow, undertook the onerous duty of Hon. Secretary for the Meeting. Daily excursions were arranged and opportunity given to the visitors to see a considerable number of places of archæological interest in the County. The President of the Royal Institute expressed his thanks to this Institute and the Societies associated with it for the work they had done to make the meeting successful.

Officers.—The Rev. H. Tyrell Green tendered his resignation as a member of the Council and this the Council accepted with regret. The Hon. Robert Erskine was nominated to fill the vacancy.

The Council feel honoured that our Editor, Mr. Leslie Dow, has been elected a Fellow of the Society of Antiquaries. The Council would like to place on record its appreciation of the voluntary work which is done for the Institute by the various officers, a sentiment which they feel sure will be echoed by the members.

Publications.—Volume XXV, part ii of the Proceedings was issued to members in July. Part iii, which will complete the volume, is in the course of preparation and, it is hoped, will appear during the summer of 1952. It will include title-page, table of contents and index to the whole volume; also the rules of the Institute and an up-to-date list of members.

The attention of members and others is again drawn to the stock of past Proceedings which is held by our printers, W. E. Harrison & Sons, The Ancient House, Buttermarket, Ipswich; these can be purchased at very reasonable prices where stocks permit. In this connection, the part for 1939 (vol. XXIII, part iii) is completely out of print and we should be most grateful if any members who have no further use for their copy would send it, complete with the title-page and index to vol. XXIII, to the Hon. Editor and in this way assist other members and libraries who wish to complete their sets; 2/6 will be paid for all such copies sent.

Library.—The new floor, mentioned in the Report for 1950, has now been laid and the heating system installed, but owing to the financial situation the Bury Borough Council has been compelled to postpone the work of redecoration. However, the books have been re-arranged and catalogued on cards by Miss Elliott, Assistant Cullum Librarian and sincere thanks are due to her for this work and to Mr. Maltby who made it possible. Borrowers are urged to see that books are put back in their proper places and are returned within a reasonable period. Binding is slowly continuing and will be kept up-to-date year by year.

Finance.—The Hon. Financial Secretary reports:—

‘ During the year under report. I have broken up all “ net ” bills and accounts, that is, those in which credits due to the S.I.A. have been allowed for before presentation, and brought to account every penny that has been received, whatever its origin, and every penny that has been expended, whatever its nature, classifying each under appropriate heads. This method of accounting tends to exaggerate the total volume of transactions as there is some “ overlapping ”. On the other hand, it enables us to see at a glance the expenditure under each head and to watch its progress both during the year and from year to year; and it greatly facilitates the work of the auditor.

Calculated thus, our total receipts amounted to £721 14s. 8d., to which must be added the closing balance of 1950, namely £277 7s. 7d., making a grand total of £999 2s. 3d. Similarly calculated, our total expenditure amounted to £961 8s. 0d. After necessary adjustments for “ overlapping ”, uncashed cheques, etc., the balance credit on 31 Dec. 1951 was £42 6s. 3d. This is not an imposing figure when compared with last year’s balance, still less that of 1949 which amounted to £345 15s. 4d. But both 1950 and 1951 have been years of heavy expenditure. In particular the Centenary Proceedings which were paid for in 1950 cost no less than £495; and the balance at the end of the year was only as large as it was because of the generous help of the Council for British Archæology and the money obtained by the sale of superfluous books, etc., resulting from the overhauling of the library. In 1951 we published, and so had to pay for, two sets of Proceedings, those for 1949 and 1950, the bills for which aggregated no less than £654 8s. 3d. A deficit was anticipated and the sanction of council was taken for dipping into our reserves. I am glad to say that this was finally not found to be necessary, the situation being met by other means.

In the first place, one article in the 1950 Proceedings was debited to the Sneezum Bequest—a sum of £50 which had been lodged with the Trustee Savings Bank and incorporated with our true reserves. As a matter of fact, the sum was not actually withdrawn. Life subscriptions to the extent of £30 which are customarily added to the reserve, and also a special donation of £10 received from a member who prefers to remain anonymous in connection with the covenant scheme were credited thereto; and the only amount I withdrew was the interest for the year, amounting to £11 2s. 6d. This interest has hitherto been accumulating year by year. I propose in future to have it credited to current account and utilise it, if necessary, just as the interest on our securities in 3½% Conversion Loan are credited to current account and form part of our normal income. In the result our reserves proper, excluding the Sneezum Bequest which was always earmarked for a special purpose, are larger by £40.

Secondly, we had a deposit account with Lloyds Bank on which we were receiving only  $\frac{1}{2}$ % interest yearly. With the sanction of Council, I liquidated this deposit, purchased with the proceeds £100 worth of 3% Bonds 1960-70 for £90 odd and appropriated to current account the balance of £28 5s. 2d. The yearly interest on these bonds will in future also be credited to current account.

Thirdly, the Council for British Archæology made a further generous donation of £34 towards the expenses of the Sutton Hoo article. Fourthly, sales of back numbers of Proceedings and off prints had been considerable during the year. The amount realised would ordinarily have been remitted to us during January 1952. But fearing that we should not have enough money to square up our accounts for the year, I requested Messrs. Harrison & Son to let me have £50 of the sum due to us, on account. The accounts show that £10 would in fact have sufficed; but then there would have been no balance or none to speak of.

As it is, the Institute's accounts for the year were completely squared with a small balance in hand, ample to cover any outstanding bill, and of none such was I aware; while with all the subscriptions for 1952 in hand, the proceeds of the covenant scheme in prospect, and its other miscellaneous income the Institute can face the future with confidence.

IMPORTANT NOTE.

Unfortunately, the Institute's Proceedings for the year 1939 (vol xxiii, part 3) is now completely out of print, no copy remaining in our stocks of past publications. It is possible that some members, who have no further use for their copy, may wish to help those libraries and members who are trying to complete their sets. The Council has therefore decided to appeal to members for copies of this part, complete with title-page and contents of volume xxiii which was issued with it.

THE SUM OF 2/6 WILL BE PAID FOR ALL SUCH COMPLETE PARTS SENT TO THE HON. EDITOR, L. DOW, F.S.A., NEWBOURNE, WOODBRIDGE.
