

FINDS.

- BADWELL ASH. Earthenware Pot. $4\frac{1}{2}$ inches high and 17-in. circumference. Globular, with foot and expanded rim, decorated with V-shaped incision, found in conjunction with A.S. armour and implements, 4-ft. below surface, on supposed site of A.S. burial ground.
- ONEHOUSE (Butridge Hill): Earthwork, probably Danish, 120 yards long 15 yards, widening to 20 broad; varying in height and overgrown with trees. The name Butridge describes it.
- REYDON. An accumulation of 21 flints, almost circular, of natural formation, varying in weight from 5 to 8 ozs. each. The British Museum can suggest no reason for this collection nor their use. (J. C. Herrington).
- RUSHMERE. Neolithic celt, polished, $7\frac{1}{4}$ inches long, width tapering from 3— $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches. (R. Saunders).
- THORNDON. Portion of Elephas Antiquus tusk, 27 inches long, in river gravel, 8-ft. deep, no other remains.
- THORNDON. When reflooring Church, the old bond beams were found to be supported upon stone jambs, mullions and ashlers of the Decorated period.
- WALBERSWICK. A Causeway across the River Blythe, $\frac{1}{2}$ mile below Blythburgh Bridge and between Bulcamp Farm on the north and a sunken road gap on the south, fordable at very low tides, may be the old ford that gave place to the present Walberswick Ferry.
- BRANDESTON. Bell, 12-inch diameter, from Parham. Inscribed "John Brend made me 1647." Hung in contemporary frame of four oak baluster columns. (Mr. Bond).
- BARROW HILL, THETFORD. Early Iron Age site, many fragments of pottery, some figured.
- KNETTISHALL HEATH. Three food vessels, Bronze Age, c. 1500 B.C. (Thetford Museum).
